

ABSTRACT

The invention relates to an implantable structure of flexible consistency for the sustained and controlled release of an active substance, consisting of a
5 bioresorbable support and an active substance, in which the bioresorbable support is formed of a material comprising an aliphatic polyester of therapeutic value as the main component.

The invention further relates to a process for the manufacture of this 10 structure.